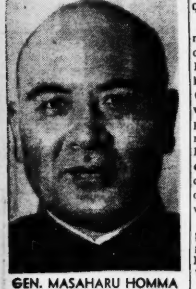
'Beast of Bataan' Held, Denies Crime

By AL DOPKING

TOKYO, Sept. 15 (AP)—Baggy-suited Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma denied today he had ordered the "Death March" of Americans from Bataan, but acknowledged he was ready "to take full responsibility for any of the acts of my subordinates," and surrendered to Kanagawa prefect rural police for Allied questioning.



GEN. MASAHARU HOMMA
Beast of Bataan Surrenders

Homma and Lt. Gen. Shigenori Kuroda, who followed him as commander of Jap forces in the Philippines, reached the rural police station at 3:45 p. m. today (2:45 a. m., E. W. T.) in a Jap war department Ford car accompanied by Associated Press Correspondents Morrie Landsberg and Max Desfor. Kanagawa police are expected to turn the two generals over to American authorities for questioning about war crimes with which their names are linked.

Both wore civilian clothing and both said they had been retired from the Jap army after their Philippines duty "without explanation."

Kuroda, 58, who spent 36 years in the army, said, "We lost the war—there must have been some mistake."

Kuroda said 10,000 American prisoners were held in the Philippines under his command (May, 1943-Sept., 1944) but he knew of no atrocities.

Both generals speak English with pronounced British accents. They conversed with each other quietly in Japanese most of the time, however.

Both took keen interest in the bomb damage in the Tokyo and Yokohama industrial areas, which they said they had not seen before. Kuroda said it was "terrible." He also was instantly interested in the first American jeep that he saw.

Arriving in Tokyo's Uno station early today to surrender as a war-criminal suspect, Homma told me in an interview that in that spring of 1942 the defense of Corregidor was so strong that he had been about ready to conclude that his assault was a failure when he saw the dying American garrison run up the white flag.

Homma insisted that he was surprised to find himself on Gen. MacArthur's "wanted" list. He also was surprised, he remarked, when he learned on Dec. 8, 1941 (Japanese time), of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor.

Homma said:

"We have been beaten, and I want to be a good loser."

Homma said he was retired from the Army in August, 1943... he was not sure why—but he remarked at one point in the interview that it may have been because "I did not like war."

Of the murderous Bataan "Death March," with its thirst, hunger, sunstrokes, beatings and gamut of wanton brutalities by Japanese troops, he talked vaguely. He said he had not ordered the march, but that he did not know exactly how his staff officers arranged surrender details.

"I know they (the Americans) had to march because of a lack of conveyances, but I don't think it was such a tough march," he declared.

Homma said there was plenty of water along the way, but again he was not sure whether Americans were permitted to drink from the streams. He reminded me several times his own forces were also hard-pressed for food, and added "there was great confusion during the surrender."

He reported he had heard of no incidents in which Japanese soldiers abused Americans after their surrender.

"I did not see anything like that, and no American officers complained to me."

325,000 in General Motors Strike Vote

DETROIT, Sept. 15 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers (CIO) announced today the intention to petition for a strike vote in 135 General Motors plants throughout the nation, affecting 325,000 workers.

The decision of the union was revealed by Walter P. Reuther, vice-president, at a press conference less than 24 hours after virtually all production in Ford Co. plants had been halted, idling 50,000 Ford employes, and indirectly affecting 75,000 others.

"We sincerely hope that no strike will be necessary," said Reuther, who declared the union had not received a reply from General Motors to its demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

The Ford Co., in halting reconversion work almost completely, declared the shutdown was due to strikes against plants supplying Ford with parts.

Labor strikes, showing a steady rise across the country since V-J Day and the subsequent ending of wartime's no-strike pledge, today kept more than 200,000 workers off their jobs, a new high for the last several months.

The second ranking labor dispute was at the Westinghouse Electric Corp. plants in six eastern states, with 47,000 employes idle as a result of a strike of 10,000 salaried employes over a wage dispute. The East Pittsburgh mill of employing 22,000, was closed, and production was curtailed at other plants in eight cities. No immediate settlement of the strike was apparent and thousands of additional workers were expected to be forced into idleness.

The biggest continuing work stoppages included the strike of 15,000 employes of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. at Akron, O., and 10,000 painters in New York City.

Layoffs of Ford workers, 40,000 of whom were employed in plants in the Detroit area, pushed to nearly 80,000 the number of workmen forced into idleness by strikes and resultant layoffs.

Also on strike were 10,000 workers at the Ford Motor Company of Canada at Windsor, Ont.; 6500 at Hudson Motor Car Company, 3100 at Murray Corporation of America and more than 4000 in eight other plants.

Ford plants were forced to close because of "crippling and unauthorized strikes" against suppliers, said Henry Ford II, executive vice-president.

"These continued outbreaks by irresponsible labor groups," young Ford asserted, were impeding the progress of reconversion.

Estimating that with "our 50,000 men, more than 125,000 people in this country will suffer because of the shutdown," young Ford said there wasn't a "city or town that won't be adversely affected.

Domei Agency Given Respite

TOKYO, Sept. 15 (AP)—Allied Supreme Headquarters told the head men of the Japanese news industry in effect today to get in line—or get out of business.

Col. Donald Hoover, chief of censorship of the Army Counter Intelligence Office, made it plain that, although the one day suspension of Domei News Agency was being lifted insofar as domestic news was concerned, Allied headquarters had reached the limit of its patience with twisted and colored Jap "news" reports.

Heads of Domei, of Radio Tokyo, of the English-language Nippon Times and Cabinet Member Tatsuo Kawai, president of the Board of Information, were called to Hoover's office, where he told them they had revealed "lack of good faith" in handling the news.

Domei resumed service at noon under 100 per cent Army censorship, stripped of its overseas bureaus and of any service, either broadcast or cable, outside Japan.

Devereux Ends First Home Lap

OMINATO ANCHORAGE, Japan, Sept. 15 (AP) — Lt. Col. James P. S. Devereux, heroic defender of Wake island, reached the escort carrier Hoggatt Bay here today—the first step of his dreamed-of return to America.

He insisted he must report to Navy Com. Winfield Scott Cunningham, who was the senior officer on Wake, before he can discuss the battle which ended—finally—in Japanese occupation of the island in December, 1941. Cunningham, imprisoned by the Japanese at Shanghai, escaped, was recaptured, and now has been liberated by Americans.

Stocking Run

DALLAS, Sept. 15 (AP)—It was a busy two hours in a Dallas department store, while the nylon stocking supply of 1200 pairs lasted.

The two-block line outside the store was he'ped by a man. "I don't care if they were made before the Civil War," said one woman. "I'm that tired of stockings that run."

Officials said the hose were the first nylons sold at retail in the nation since the war ended.

23 Die as Army Plane Explodes

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 15 (AP)—Twenty-three persons, including 19 veterans of European battlefronts, were killed early today as a C-47 Army transport plane crashed in flames 14 seconds after leaving Fairfax Airport.

Only three of the 24 military personnel aboard the plane were removed alive from the flaming wreckage and one of those, Sgt. Bernard C. Tucker, Etna, Cal., died at a Kansas City hospital. A European veteran, he was being flown to Camp Beale, Cal., for discharge.

Others brought to the hospital were Sgt. Ora D. De Long, Barstow, Cal., whose papers indicated he is related to G. L. De Long, San Bernardino, Cal., and Cpl. Fred Ebert, Pasadena, Cal. Ebert later died.

The plane was bound from Newark, N. J., to the West Coast and had stopped to refuel.

Army officials at Fairfax Airport withheld names of the passengers and immediately placed the wreckage under a military police guard.

The plane had just crossed the Missouri river when it exploded and crashed, one witness said.

"It looked like the entire sky lit up," said William F. Maxwell, a tourist hotel operator, nearby. "But I only heard a small explosion."

Wreckage of the huge transport was scattered over a wide area but most of the fuselage fell on tracks of the Burlington Railroad about five miles north of Kansas City's business section.

MAYOR KERRIGAN AND ARCHBISHOP CUSHING
Attend Opening of Service Wives' Center
INP by Bill Jones

Archbishop, Mayor Praise New Hub GI Wives' Center

Praising the community co-operation which made possible the first center in the United States for exclusive use of servicemen's wives and mothers, religious and civic leaders, headed by Abp. Cushing and Mayor Kerrigan, joined today in impressive dedication exercises.

"Such a service has been needed since the beginning of the war," Abp. Cushing said, "especially in a city like Boston where wives and mothers by the hundreds gather to see their loved ones off or welcome them as they return.

"It is strange no one thought of providing for these good people before, but I am glad it was Boston people who organized, supported and will staff this Center. Boston people always are first in good deeds."

He pointed out that the end of the war had by no means solved the problems of these women, long-forgotten figures in the war scene, and said the spacious quarters at 146 Boylston st. would serve a useful and continuing purpose in welcoming women folk of servicemen of all colors, races and creeds.

"Boston has new work to do," he said. "By boat and plane, thousands of young men are coming here. Thousands of others will stay in our neighborhood for months at Army and Navy bases and at hospitals. Their wives and mothers will be coming to visit them. They will find friendly guidance, encouragement, a chance to rest here in the new Center.

"People of every race, color and creed will come here. They will be equally welcome and equally at home.

"I think Boston can well be proud of the manner in which this Center has brought together outstanding citizens of varied backgrounds and the experiment should prove a model in civic cooperation for human assistance.

"I am proud that the local unit of the National Catholic Community Service has taken the lead in organizing such a group and with all my heart I wish the Center well."

Expressing pride that the Center had been inaugurated in his administration, Mayor Kerrigan praised Abp. Cushing for accepting the responsibility for operat-

Hurricane Roars Up Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 15 (AP)—Winds clocked at 71 m.p.h. roared over the Florida coastline south of Miami at 1:50 p. m. (EWT) today as the vanguard of a hurricane with an estimated peak velocity of 150 m.p.h. as the core swept toward the Florida Keys. Winds at 63 m.p.h. were registered at Carysfort Light 40 miles south of Miami.

The barometer had dropped to 29.73 at Miami and 29.941 at Carysfort Light.

Torn-off palm fronds clogged downtown Miami streets and made traffic—for those hardy souls who ventured forth—impassible at several points.

The weather bureau warned that the fury of the hurricane would increase as the center approached, especially over the area south of Miami and the keys.

"The full force of the hurricane is expected to give winds exceeding 100 M. P. H. on the keys later this afternoon," the noon advisory said, adding that the storm was continuing to move west northwestward with the center hitting near Key Largo, 50 miles northwest of Miami.

The first reported casualty of the storm was a sailor on the two-masted Honduran schooner Icaros, driven onto the beach near Sunny Isles and rapidly being broken up by the pounding surf.

Six men reached shore in a lifeboat. The dead man, Cecil Wederburn, a member of the crew, was drowned when he jumped overboard in attempt to save a dog, the ship's mascot, swept into the boiling sea.

At noon, Western Union reported that all its lines between Miami and West Palm Beach were out. Palm Beach reported high winds and a driving rain.

Ten minutes after the Miami Weather Bureau issued its 12:30 p. m. advisory, Grady Norton, chief forecaster, measured winds of 63 m. p. h.—a jump of five miles—in downtown Miami.

The barometer had dropped to 29.78 and was falling fast.

Norton said Miami "definitely is going to miss the worst of it" as the hurricane raced toward the keys.

"I believe Miami is going to get out of it with slightly less than hurricane velocity, but we'll get a hard blow," he said.

Storm Unlikely to Hit N. E.

Boston weather bureau officials today gave assurance that New England "is not likely" to be affected by the Florida-bound hurricane.

"It is still too early to tell definitely but present indications are that the storm will turn inland," the bureau announced. "Should that happen, all threat to this section will be removed because that type of storm breaks up quickly once it gets over large bodies of land."

Close watch is being maintained at all Atlantic weather stations, however, and ample warning will be given if the storm appears to threaten New England.

Springfield Plan Author Resigns

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 15—Acceptance of the resignation of Dr. John Granrud, author of the famed "Springfield Plan" for racial and religious tolerance in schools, from his post as superintendent of schools was announced today by Mayor J. Albin Anderson, Jr.

Mayor Anderson gave poor health as the reason for the resignation of the superintendent, who disappeared from the city last June in the midst of a hearing by the school committee of charges of laxity which he had preferred against Charles P. Morris, superintendent of school buildings.

The mayor said the suspended hearing would be resumed next week despite the absence of Dr Granrud.

Dr. Granrud's mysterious absence from the city came to light last June when he could not be located to testify in the hearing against Morris.

At that time the school committee suspended the hearing until he could be located.

A week later he was found in his native Minneapolis and produced a doctor's certificate that he was too ill to return here and testify in the hearing. After examination by a disinterested physician, Dr. Granrud submitted his resignation, but no action was taken upon it by the school committee.

Two days ago he repeated his request that he be permitted to resign and the resignation was accepted last night by the school committee.

Dr. Granrud had brought 64 specific charges against Morris as a result of complaints to him by the Union of Operating Engineers (AFL).

Princess Hurt In Riding Fall

LONDON, Sept. 15 (INS)—Princess Elizabeth, heir apparent to the throne of the British Empire, has been injured in a fall while horse-back riding.

An official announcement from Balmoral Castle, one of the country residences of the royal family, said the pretty young princess had been thrown from a horse and "severely bruised" on both legs.

The Princess, already identified by current British historians as Britain's second "Great Elizabeth" was riding with her young sister, Margaret Rose, when thrown.

A court physician emphasized that the injuries were not serious but said it was essential that Princess Elizabeth take no strenuous exercise for a few days.

Autumn Sunday To Follow Heat

Humidity, combined with midsummer temperatures, really took the starch out of Bostonians today.

You can take the weatherman's word for it that the humidity was extremely high. At 12:30 p. m. it was 67 per cent. The weather official said 60 is considered high.

At the same hour, the mercury was up to 83 to complete the job of privding Boston with the gloppiest (Stickiest) day in weeks.

Heavy showers took the edge off the uncomfortable combination early this afternoon. Tonight will be partly cloudy and cooler, and Sunday will be a "typical autumn day," according to the forecaster.

Church Probes Canada 'Cures'

By JACK McLEAN AND TOM RILEY

Copyright, 1945, Boston Evening American (The Hearst Corporation)

The Catholic hierarchy of Canada took steps to investigate the possibility that Quebec may have another Bernadette of Lourdes in a modest 13-year-old French Canadian girl whose reported cures, observers say, verge on the miraculous.

Mayor J. E. Berard of the Quebec gold field village of Val D'Or told the Boston Evening American that church officials had interviewed the girl, Pierrette Regimbal, in her parents' home, had taken the case histories of claimed cures and ordered a complete investigation.

The child, one of 12 children, was a hopeless cripple until two months ago, Mayor Berard said. Victim of bone tuberculosis she was able to get around only with the aid of crutches, he added. Then, while praying to St. Francis of Assisi one day at a spring near her home, the girl said she had a visit from the saint and that he took her crutches from her.

Since then, according to the mayor, various residents of Val D'or and from various sections of the Dominion have been cured by merely touching the hand of the child.

News of these wonders spread rapidly through Canada and to parts of the United States, resulting in hundreds of gifts, letters and requests going to the little village.

"I get hundreds of letters daily myself," the mayor said. "Pierrette and her parents get even more. A grotto has been built at the spring where the child prayed and relics have been deposited by persons who say they merely drank the water there.

"Last weekend more than 4000 people made a pilgrimage to the spring. There will be equally as many this weekend. Hundreds go to the Regimbal home to try for a glimpse of the girl."

Mayor Berard revealed that he recently visited the dark-haired, brown-eyed child at her home. He described her as "shy, but cute, quite natural and normal.

"I learned that she has possessed these powers for about seven years," the myor related. "But her parents pledged themselves to secrecy rather than allow people believe they were supposing that things had happened.

"It was not until St. Francis of Assisi appeared before the child two months ago and told her she'd self was able to walk without crutches that the parents even mentioned the matter.

"Her own cure happened on a Sunday, she told me. She had gone to mass and it seemed more difficult than ever for her to walk. From church she went to her spring and there had the visitation from her favorite saint. She said he took the crutches from her and she ran home.

"Since then she has had other visitations, both at the spring and in her home. Since her own cure she injured her arm and it was believed broken, but after another visit, it was completely cured."

The mayor said that the grotto erected at the spring was built by a Val D'or contractor in fulfillment of a vow he had made to St. Francis if his wife's crippled legs were cured by the child.

Because of the attention focused on the child recently and reports of additional cures she effected, little Pierrette has remained in the seclusion of her room.

Mayor Berard said arrangements are being made to fulfill her request that she be allowed to enter a convent.

The Catholic church investigation into the miracle reports was ordered by Bishop Most Rev. Joseph Aldee Desmarais of Amos, Quebec, Mayor Berard said.

The plane crashed into a bronco, killing it, bounced skyward and crash-landed half a mile away.

Gunfire, Crash Halts Teen-Age Brothers in Car

Two Jamaica Plain policemen, en route home from duty, clung on the trail of a speeding stolen automobile today and finally halted their quarry with a single warning shot in Franklin Park—only to discover their prisoners were two Jamaica Plain brothers, only 13 and 14.

During the chase the youngsters smashed into two parked machines and eventually wrecked the car against a stone bench in the park.

Patrolmen Michael J. Donovan and William O'Brien were driving home in O'Brien's own auto when they spied the stolen car in Washington st., Jamaica Plain.

The chase led up Montebello rd. and along Walnut ave. where the young speeders crashed automobiles owned by Victor J. Vernick and Nettie Levitan, both of Walnut ave.

Without slackening speed the youths swung into Franklin Park and it was then that O'Brien fired the warning shot, just a moment before the stolen car hit the bench.

The officers approached with drawn guns only to discover their "desperadoes" were two half-pint youngsters. They were taken for arraignment in juvenile court.

Owner of the machine, stolen earlier in Forest Hills, is Daniel Mosher of Sunnyside st., Hyde Park.

Mrs. Frank Knudsen, of 1 Charles st., Dorchester, writes the following letter to this column: "My husband's name is Frank Knudsen, who was killed in action in Germany, March 31, 1945. He was with Co. G, 414th Inf., 104th Div. (Timber Wolves). I thought that some of his buddies living in Greater Boston might be able to give me some additional information about his death. Would appreciate it they would contact me and also grateful for the assistance that your column has been giving servicemen and their families."

(Ed. note: From the War Dept. the following communication regarding the return of overseas troops was received by Veterans' Friend Editor: "The homecoming date of the following divisions have been moved up so as to bring them back by the end of this month—9th and 16th Armored Divisions, 63d, 69th and 99th Infantry Divisions which are to be landed at either New York or Boston.

"High point men are being screened out of divisions that are scheduled for later return or on occupational duty so that they may embark for the U. S. as soon as possible.")

Q—I received a Bad Conduct Discharge from the Navy. Am I entitled to State Bonus? A. F., Boston.

A—You are eligible providing your discharge was not issued under dishonorable conditions.

Q—My sister's husband is a S-Sgt. in the Army and he refuses to write her. Recently she gave birth to a baby and husband refuses to apply for child's allotment. When baby was born, sister nearly died and husband was given an emergency furlough through aid of Red Cross, but never came home. Is there anything that she can do to get this money? I. B., Orange.

A—From the tone of your letter I would say something should be done. Your sister's best bet is to write her husband's Commanding Officer and explain the situation. Also write First Service Command, Personnel Affairs Branch, 808 Commonwealth ave., Boston, requesting application for additional allotment for baby.

Q—A brother-in-law of mine has been in the Army for nearly a year and is still in the States. He is almost 37 and the father of two children. Has he any chance of discharge? R. L., Boston.

A—First of all, he will not be sent overseas and it is a matter of only a short time before regulations are announced which will grant him discharge.

Q—Will soldiers who request discharge now because of age be granted mustering-out pay? B. G., Lynn.

A—Yes, they will receive full benefits of mustering-out pay.

Hundreds of letters are being received by the Veterans' Friend requesting information when certain companies, regiments, battalions, hospital and other units are returning from Europe.

The War Dept. will not give out any information in advance regarding these organizations. Only division departures are being released in advance.

Announcement of the above mentioned groups, giving unit designations, are released following embarkattion at a foreign port. Schedule of arrivals at U. S. ports will be found on another page of this newspaper under the heading "The Boys Come Home."

Polio Hits Grid Star, Game Off

For the second time in a week, infantile paralysis struck at a Greater Boston high school football squad today with a 14-year-old Arlington High School halfback reported as the latest victim of the malady.

Stricken Thursday, he was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital, where his ailment was diagnosed as infantile paralysis.

As a result, the Arlington Board of Health ordered cancellation of the team's opening game today with Medford High School's eleven at the Gillis Stadium, Medford, one of the outstanding clashes of the opening of the schoolboy gridiron season.

The entire squad was placed under quarantine until it could be determined whether any other players had been infected.

Only a week ago, a member of the Marblehead High School squad was stricken with infantile paralysis, causing quarantining of the squad and cancellation of its scheduled game tonight with Peabody at Manning Bowl, Lynn.

The Wakefield High School eleven will play Peabody tonight instead.

Arlington and Medford athletic authorities were unable to say what plans would be made for a later meeting between the two teams.

The matter has been placed in the hands of the state board of health and faculty officials were hopeful arrangements might be made to play the game Monday, although it was doubtful that health authorities would consent.

Arlington's schedule has an open date later in the season, but Medford is booked solidly.

The Arlington squad is coached by Henry Toczylowski, former Boston College star, while the Medford squad is directed by Eddie Pidgeon, veteran schoolboy coach and member of the Massachusetts Youth Commission.

Truman's Ma Urges Care, He Clams Up

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 15 (AP) President Truman told an informal news conference today he had no information on published reports that Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley wanted to resign as ambassador to China upon his return to this country.

The President also told reporters that he had not found the man he wanted to fill a vacancy on the United States Supreme Court.

The President, declining to comment on disturbed labor conditions in Detroit where 50,000 Ford Motor Co. employes were thrown out of work as production stopped in the Ford plant, told reporters about his visit earlier in the day to his mother, Mrs. Martha Truman, 92, at Grandview.

He found her in good health and said she had given him her usual advice to "be careful."

"And that's what I am trying to do now," he told the reporters.

He spent an hour with his mother at her white frame bungalow in rural Grandview.

Sign Testimony For Mute Killer

SALEM, Sept. 15—An expert in the sign language or lip-reading will serve as an interpreter when David Horblit, 26, deaf mute and former Boston boxer, goes on trial in Essex Superior Court three weeks hence charged with the murder of his wife and baby.

This was promised today by Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg in the interest of justice and to make sure the defendant understands everything that goes on during the trial. Cregg's stand was taken after an offer to serve in such capacity was made by William E. Shaw, who described himself as a sign language expert.

Horblit walked into Peabody police station last July 11 and wrote out on paper the startling news, "I just killed my wife and baby."

Police found his wife, Catherine, 22, and 20-month-old baby battered to death with a hammer in their South Peabody home.

3 Aged Women Hurt in Crash

LOWELL, Sept. 15—Three elderly Newburyport women were hospitalized here today, one with a fractured skull and dangerously near death, after their automobile was demolished in a collision with a truck at Andover and Nesmith sts.

The skull fracture was suffered by Myrta D. Aiken, 70, of Curzon Mill rd., the driver, who was removed to St. John's Hospital with her companions, Mrs. Jennie Thurlow, 76, of State st., and Mrs. Moses Wright, 73, of Fruit st. They were cut and bruised.

The truck driver, Armand R. Morin, 27, of Ward st., Lowell, was uninjured.

SOMERVILLE BRIDE—Miss Margaret Neylon of Central rd., Somerville, today became the bride of John W. Mahaney of Walcott st., Natick. They are shown leaving St. Catherine of Genoa Church where they were wed at a nuptial mass.

ENOCH ARDEN TRIANGLE—Returning home from official "death" after being shot down in flames over Okinawa, Navy Lt. James Coles, Jr., of Oakland, Cal., found his wife, Laurie, married to Army Lt. Ethan P. Bernstein. Locating Laurie and his infant son, "Snuffy," at the home of relatives, Lt. Coles said: "I love them both. I've got to get this mess straightened out."

Sightless Girl Sails To Wed Blind Briton

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Mary Mansfield, blind since birth, sailed for England today to marry the sightless fiance to whom she became engaged during a mail courtship in Braille.

Guided by her ever-present seeing eye dog Arta, Miss Mansfield was escorted up the gangplank of the Cunary liner Jutlandia by Lt. and Mrs. Fred W. Calef, of Flushing, Queens, whom she has visited since she arrived by plane from Colorado Springs, Thursday.

The sailing became a small neighborhood party when Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Barnes arrived from New Britain, Ct., to wish the blind passenger bon voyage.

"We read about Mary leaving today so we came down to see her off," Mrs. Barnes said, explaining they were neigibours at Colorado Springs and that she and her husband had been visiting at New Britain.

Miss Mansfield was excited as preparations for sailing got under way.

"My first concern is to start making a home for Harry," she said.

She has never met 44-year-old Harry Christopher Marsom. They became engaged seven years ago after corresponding for three years.

Miss Mansfield, 33, and a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Colorado College, said Marsom, inspector in an electric plant and blind since he was 14, "managed a transport business before the war, between his home at Northhill, Biggleswade, and London, but had to give it up because of the war." She said he is conducting a furniture repair business now and seems to like it.

Cyclist Killed In 150 Ft. Plunge

NORTH ANDOVER, Sept. 15 (AP)—Norman H. Florence, 28, of Wakefield, plunged 150 feet to his death today when his motorcycle hit an embankment at the Lawrence municipal airport.

Police said the cycle was traveling 90 miles per hour in a speed test.

Florence, an aviation enthusiast, had gone to the airport for a flying lesson, but it had been called off on account of weather conditions.

Roaring along the east-west runway, he was seen to stand, as though in a desperate effort to apply the brakes, just before the cycle hit the mound at the end of the stretch, police said.

Train Fall Kills Braintree Sailor

En route home after 18 months in the Pacific, S 1c George Anastos, 21, USNR, of Franklin st., South Braintree, was killed at Little Falls, N. Y., today when he apparently fell from a New York Central train.

His body was found alongside the tracks after the eastbound train passed through Herkimer, N. Y. A sailor companion, William Crafty of Hyland st., Roxbury, identified him.

S 1c Anastos

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Anastos. His parents said he was returning on leave.

Anastos entered the Navy shortly after graduating from Braintree high school in 1941. A brother, Peter, 22, is also in the Navy.

30 Held in Hull Gambling Raid

Breaking into Studio Inn, Nantasket ave., Hull, early today, State Troopers said they found a dice game going full blast and arrested 30 persons, many of them well known Greater Boston gamblers.

The surprise raid, staged by Lt. John F. McLaughlin and seven troopers from the Bridgewater barracks, was carried on without the knowledge of Hull police.

Stradi Karaf, 29, of Nantasket ave., Hull, and John Guilty, 31, of Lake st., Brighton, arrested on charges of keeping a common gaming establishment, were bailed in $100 each for appearance next Wednesday in Hingham District Court.

The 28 others present were arrested on charges of being present at a gaming place and were released in bail of $25 each for hearing on the same date.

Hub Lensman Says Japs Think Tired Yanks Quit

Probably one of the first GI's to arrive in Tokyo, T5 George W. Woodruff, son of George Woodruff of the Boston office of International News Photos found the Japs not realizing they were defeated and believing the war over because Americans were tired of fighting.

In a letter to his parents, datelined "Sept. 1, Final Objective," young Woodruff, a combat movie cameraman, gave his impressions of the Japanese attitude toward the first Americans to reach the enemy capital.

"I think I'd be correct in saying Lautman, Weiner, a cameraman from another unit, and myself were the first American soldiers in Tokyo," he wrote. "We buzzed in here shortly after lunch Thursday and didn't realize until later that we'd seen no GI's nor that society is off-limits until complications are cleared up.

"We made arrangements with Nippon Newsreel and Domei to have all photographic material they had shot placed at our disposal, in the name of the Army Pictorial Service. They must have thought we were generals.

"Judging from the attitude of these people, I've come to the conclusion they actually believe the war is fini because we were tired of fighting.

"Nothing bumble or servile, as might be expected, but a lot of that 'Greetings, friend. Anything we can do for you?' Buddy to buddy and all that. Of course we find a lot of dirty looks in the crowd but I'll lay you two to one most of them don't know which end is up. In brief, they don't know they're licked.

"We're living across the street from the Royal Palace in the Imperial Hotel, a nifty joint and undamaged. Every morning a courteous little clerk comes up with a daily bill—30 yen a room, which adds up to about $7.50. Ring a bell and a character shuffles in with tea. What a war! I never had it so good.

"Don't tell about that little junior. The war's over."

Japs Shudder At Term 'Atomic'

Mention of the atomic bomb to Japs surrendering in the Negros Islands made them shudder, Lt. John J. Sullivan, son of Mayor Bernard L. Sullivan of Chelsea, wrote his father.

Lt. Sullivan, commander of a paratrooper company, accepted the surrender of 1500 Japanese.

Sullivan asked the Jap interpreter if he had heard of the atomic bomb. The enemy linguist, a California-educated Jap, shuddered and answered, "It is such a terrible thing."

He said that even before the advent of the atomic bomb the troops had realized their chances were hopeless and that Japan's destiny was sealed. "The other bombing was bad enough," he said.

Sullivan is a graduate of Chelsea High School and Massachusetts State College.

Puppy Love

DETROIT, Sept. 15 (AP)—Cookie is eating again, and all's well in Mrs. Bejou Nahoum's household.

Cookie, a Spitz dog, quit eating when the last of her puppies was given away. Her master, Mrs. Nahoum's son Max, 28, a medical corps private, is en route home from England, and his mother worried he might find no Cookie to greet him, but the couple who got Cookie's last pup brought it back, and the mother dog's appetite immediately revived.

Center

ing it on a non-sectarian basis.

He also saluted the leadership of the Boston American, Record and Sunday Advertiser in "recognizing the need and providing the spark."

The mayor retraced the months of planning and preparation, telling of his appointment of a city committee to plan the Center after its need was called to his attention by Publisher Harold G. Kern and Editorial Director Walter Howey of the American, Record and Sunday Advertiser.

"I am proud today," he said, "because this community is pioneering in solving a problem which has puzzled all the nation's great port cities—the problem of how to aid the wives and mothers of servicemen.

"Until today there has been no place in the entire city where these women could find a civic welcome and a place of their own. Existing social agencies have done wonderful work, but they do not have the facilities to meet this unique situation.

"But now these women, long separated from sons and husbands in uniform, can come to these friendly rooms from all over the nation and feel they are not the forgotten women of the war but someone whose welfare is very important to the city of Boston."

In his message to the gathering at the dedication exercises, Publisher Kern declared the Center would serve as a symbol of security and cheer for servicemen's womenfolk, even though they were strangers in the city, and that it would fill an even greater civic need now that peace had come.

"It is only human for patriotic enthusiasm to cool, for folks to turn back to their own problems, now that the war is over," he said. "But as long as millions of our boys remain in Europe and the Pacific, the war is not over for service wives and mothers.

"There is still a long and lonely road ahead for those who await the return of loved ones. More and more they will be left to their own devices and less and less will the burden be carried by sympathetic neighbors and fellow-citizens.

"But the portals of this cheerful haven will ever be open to them and a friendly hand extended to lighten their burden."

He praised Abp. Cushing, Mayor Kerrigan and all who had played any part in bringing the dream of the nation's first center for the womenfolk of servicemen to fruition.

Immediately following the dedication services today, the Center went into action as a seven-day-a-week civic welcoming and information center to all women relatives of men in uniform.

Decorated in soft bright colors in a comfortably modern manner, the Center offers "drop in" facilities, the convenience of a charming rose-and green powder room, canteen and reading rooms, a children's play corner, and aid and counsel of all sorts.

It will welcome both strangers to Boston and the city's own army of servicemen's womenfolk, regardless of race, color or creed.

The Boston Center for Servicemen's Wives and Mothers is the result of combined efforts on the part of Abp. Cushing and his representatives, Mayor Kerrigan, board members of the George Robert White Fund, and executives and staff members of the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser.

Finances to renovate, redecorate and furnish the building were provided by these newspapers through a gigantic Boston Garden show held last June 24, starring Eddie Cantor and a supporting host of Hollywood and theatrical personalities.

It will be operated on a non-denominational basis by the National Catholic Community Service of Boston, with Mrs. Ella T. McCarthy as first Center director.

Watching the aged whiskey at the distillery.

One thing that makes Imperial a fine whiskey can't be weighed or measured. That's the whiskey-wisdom gained by Hiram Walker through all the years since 1858. That's what gives Imperial its character, its difference.

when Haffenreffer & Co., Inc., was founded, the family physician, limited in medical facilities, was a familar sight as he made his rounds. In that year Pasteur, the eminent scientist, was conducting experiments which led to the discovery of pasteurization — the maintenance of the biological purity of food and drink. This discovery, due to its biological significance, was of vast importance to the medical profession.

IN 1945

the increase in the human life span is a direct result of remarkable progress made by the medical profession. Paralleling this progress there has also been constant development in the art of brewing. Haffenreffer & Co., Inc., brewers of PICKWICK ALE, have over the years consistently applied to the brewing of their product every beneficial feature developed by the industry's constant scientific research.

Picnic Fun On Porch

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

IT'S A LOT of fun to go on picnics, but "porch meals" have all the advantages of a picnic without the disadvantages of sudden showers and insects. While the early evenings are still light and warm enough to sit out, serve a meal on the porch.

If you want to include your friends and guests, extend the meat with milk and other milk products such as cheese.

PORCH BUFFET

Ham Loaf Horseradish Sauce
Cottage Cheese Potato Salad
Sliced Tomatoes Relish Tray
Raised Muffins
Butter or Margarine
Ice Cream Shortcakes
Coffee Milk

HAM LOAF

1 lb. lean ham, ground
½ lb. veal, ground
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. dry mustard
½ cup minced onion
½ cup diced green pepper, optional
3 cups fine, fresh bread crumbs
2 cups milk

Combine all ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Pour into a well-greased pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve hot or cold with horseradish sauce. Makes 6 servings.

COTTAGE CHEESE POTATO SALAD

8 or 9 medium potatoes
¾ cup cottage cheese
3 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup diced green pepper
1 cup diced celery
½ to 1-3 cup sliced green onions
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
¾ cup salad dressing

Wash potatoes and cook in skins until tender. Drain, cool, peel and dice—there should be about 5 or 6 cups. Add remaining ingredients except the cottage cheese. Blend salad ingredients thoroughly with dressing—half cooked dressing and half mayonnaise may be used. Add cottage cheese last, mixing gently with a fork. Serve garnished with hard-cooked egg slices and parsley. Makes six servings.

RAISED MUFFINS

1 cup milk
2 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. shortening
1 cake yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs, well beaten
2½ cups sifted flour

Scald milk, add sugar, salt and shortening; cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water and add to lukewarm milk. Add eggs and flour to make a moderately stiff batter. Beat until smooth, cover and let rise in warm place, free from draft, until light, about 1 hour. Fill well-greased muffin pans half full. Cover and let rise again, about ½ hour. Bake in moderate oven at 375 deg. F. about 30 minutes. Makes 16 muffins.

ICE CREAM SHORTCAKES

Cut a circular piece out of the top of cup cakes, then fill with ice cream, put cake top back on each, and top with sauce. Try vanilla ice cream with butterscotch sauce, or hot fudge sauce, or crushed fruit; chocolate ice cream with marshmallow sauce, or coffee ice cream with hot fudge sauce.

Latest Glamor Styles in Hollywood

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IF WE WERE to sum up in a word or two the chief attribute of this year's fashions as compared to those of recent seasons, it would be "They're dressier." The trend is particularly noticeable in Hollywood, where it has for some time been fashionable to be deliberately casual, to wear cottons or slacks to dinner, and to shop hatless and gloveless. A letter from Margaret Ettinger, fashions scout, reports on the film colony:

Constance Moore went dancing at Mocambo in a wing-sleeved white crepe dinner dress that illustrated the importance of waistline detail with a gold belt fashioned so that Miss Moore's diamond broach can clip onto the front of the belt. With this gown she wore a softly draped white fox stole, gold sandals and gold kid gauntlet gloves. Is that dressy or isn't it?

Joan Bennett lunched at the Brown Derby in a suede suit of Parma violet with a suede and tissue leather sash of powder blue. The suit was dolman-sleeved with the new rounded shoulders and pinched-in waist detail. Her blue suede gloves matched the suede beret in which she wore two violet hatpins with diamond centers. Ellen Drew has a yellow wool dress that gives a two-piece suit effect with its hipline drapery in front. The dress is sequin-striped in black, and with it she wears patent leather sandals and bag, and a yellow crocheted hat heavily encrusted in sequins and jet.

DREAM date dress for juniors, starred for its beguiling shadow yoke and siren touches of rayon satin. The fabric is a dull-textured koda crepe . . . Note the new cap sleeves and the clustered unpressed pleats for fullness.

GLAMOR edition of the shirtwaist dress . . . tailored for day or date-time occasions in a fine faille-type koda crepe. Its after-five details include the new-length deep sleeves, the drape from the bodice with a deep armhole, the self belt tied with a soft sash bow, and the graceful front flare of the skirt.

THIS slimming and distinguished frock has a party-apron peplum, spangled with rows of golden discs . . . a glitter note for a slim after-dark dress. The fabric is a pebbly Eastman acetate. Softly gathered shoulders give the new top fullness and the short drop sleeves are edged with the glittering trim.

Merle Oberon wore a bustle back pimiento-red taffeta evening dress to the "Song Without Words" premiere. The huge bustle accented her slim waist; with soft folds draping at the knee from the front to the bustle in back. With it she wore a matching taffeta stole of red and chartreuse plaid lined in ermine. Her gloves were of plain pimiento red taffeta, plaid cuffs.

We also hear that in Hollywood it is new to wear fur belts and hats to match, or fur purse and fur-cuffed gloves. Belts are to be found in leopard, black caracul or shiny mink, and it's smart to pin a diamond or two to it.

"AND SO, my Fellow Countrymen, today I report to you that your sons and daughters have served you well and faithfully with the calm, deliberate, determined fighting spirit of the American soldier and sailor. Based upon a tradition of historical fact, as against fanaticism of an enemy supported only by mythological fiction, their spiritual strength and power have brought us through to victory. They are homeward bound—take care of them."—Gen. Douglas MacArthur in speech to people of the United States, following Japanese surrender aboard U. S. S. Missouri, September 2, 1945.

KENNEDY FACES FACTS

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY, former Ambassador to Great Britain and present chairman of the legislative commission studying Governor Tobin's proposed State Department of Commerce, has been criticized unfairly for his determination to face grim facts and tell bitter truths.

Mr. Kennedy is doing his duty honestly and honorably.

He was chosen for this important investigation because of his reputation for accuracy and forthrightness.

He could not and would not be indirect, evasive and furtive.

He tells us:

"England turned to the Labor Party because the people would no longer tolerate a situation that gave them so little control of the nation's economy and excluded people without means from the opportunity to secure them.

"We've not only got to find jobs for our youngsters, but we've got to give them good jobs—better than those they left to enter the service. WE'VE GOT TO GIVE THEM A CHANCE TO GROW IN A GROWING COMMUNITY.

"In this State we are too much inclined to think of what we have done. Well, what have we done here in the past 25 or 40 years except live off the fat? We're beginning to get lean.

"We're are too prone to say, 'Well, we're doing pretty well, and we've done pretty well in the past.'

"We pay too much attention to what our ancestors have done and not enough to what we are going to do for our descendants.

"We've got to use our young men, give them good jobs. We've got to use their brains and their ability.

"Today Massachusetts is afflicted with too old management, too old machinery and too old methods."

If some courageous leader had spoken like that a half-century ago, we now would not have abandoned factories, ox-cart highways, cow pasture airports, obsolete railroads, slums and near-slums.

On the contrary, we would be clothing the world, manufacturing automobiles and airplanes, offering the cheapest and most abundant electrical power in the country and enjoying our rightful prosperity as the State and section nearest to the principal markets of Europe and South America.

Like ostriches, we hid our heads in the sands of delusion back in our grandfathers' time and consequently suffered depressions and prolonged stagnation.

Let's not do it again.

PAINT IT!

THE Lion and Unicorn, British Empire symbols which nobody has ever bothered to remove from the Old State House, have received coats of gold and silver paint.

Now let's do something more necessary and beneficial. Let's remove the black-out gray from the dome of the New State House.

The war is over, and the capitol of the Commonwealth should reflect the fact.

It is not honest to say that the black-out is being retained for reasons of economy.

If the Tobin administration wants to save money, all it has to do is to look under the dome and into the many departments that are spending twice as much as they should.

Now everything is glad, while I am sad
Since my true love is parted from me.
The rose upon the brier,
By waters running clear
May have charms for the linnet and bee;
Their little loves are blest,
Their little hearts at rest,
But my true love is parted from me.

HOW LONG has it been since a cute little trick type has won the Miss America title? It is beginning to appear every year is a tall girls' year insofar as the Atlantic City bathing beauty contest is concerned. Does a girl have to be long-legged to be a standout in a bathing suit? This comment is inspired by a communication from a member of the Manhattan "Little, But, Oh My!" Club, well-known organization of petite females. Members of this club are seriously thinking of picketing the Atlantic City contest next year as being unfair to cute little tricks.

PLEASE NOTE: In 1915 it was possible to purchase a dozen quarts of the best Bourbon whisky for $12. Suppose you had purchased 12 quarts of Bourbon in 1915 and kept it until now. How much would that 30-year-old whisky be worth? . . . Long Island railroad has machinery that can spray, scrub and rinse a passenger car in 60 seconds. Won't be long before they will have some of these super-duper machines made in smaller form and adapted for housework. Then all home managers will be through their housework by 11 a. m. at the latest.

CHAMPIONS: "There never has been a world's heavyweight boxing champion born in Ireland," writes a Chicagoan named MacPartland, who says he is a native of Aberdeen, Scotland. "However, there have been some champions of Irish descent. When the Irish blood is blended with some other, a good fighter often results. The best combination is that of Irish and American Indian blood, such as in the case of Jim Thorpe. Should Jim have chosen to take up boxing he undoubtedly would have been heavyweight champion." Not everybody will agree with this Scotsman's views.

BEAUTY: A U. S. Army major says the most beautiful red-haired girl in Chicago is a WAC captain stationed at the headquarters of the Sixth Service Command. I'll have to send a representative of our Horses and Women Department over to take a look at this spectacular beauty. Of course, his opinion may need checking, so when in Chicago I'll drop by the Sixth Service Command myself. I have never seen a red-haired WAC. Is she as lovely as Jeanette MacDonald?

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—As weight does not seem to figure in harness horse races, how can they run a handicap? Also, why isn't it a handicap for a horse to pull a 190-pound man against other horses, drivers of which weigh around 140 pounds. A—In harness race handicaps the best horses start from scratch. The others start farther up the track at distances figured according to their class and past performances. Handicaps of this type are rarely run nowadays. As for the angle of weight, I believe a horse pulling a lighter driver does have an advantage.

FIRST LOVE: "No woman ever forgets her first sweetheart. Her love for him stays with her always." Such is the statement made by a well-known married female who indicated her husband was not her first sweetheart. Few men forget their first sweethearts, either. But most men at least have the good taste not to continually refer to their past sweethearts. Too many women overdo the chatter on the romantic angle. Anyway, our Horses & Women experts question the claim that all women continue to nurse a sentimental feeling for their first sweethearts. A good many women wonder how they could have been so foolish as to fall for such a fellow.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—Ed Haffel, assistant director of the Petroleum Administration for War, says that the thing he misses most since being released from a prison camp in Germany is that he doesn't get around to singing hymns any more.

Mr. Haffel, who now works for Secretary of Interior Ickes, which many consider an atrocity in itself, reports that if he had only been held prisoner a couple of months longer he is sure he would have become one of the foremost renditioners of "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

James Cagney

Mr. Haffel was reminiscing about his experiences as a war prisoner the other day and told this fascinating story:

He and a number of newspaper correspondents—Mr. Haffel is an ex-reporter who went Ickes—were interned in a Nazi camp at Bad Nauheim. They were later exchanged but during their confinement they had quite a time.

"One of our group, Ed Shanke, managed to keep possession of a small radio," he said. "The thing looked like a camera and the reason the Germans let him keep it is that he had no films—and there wasn't anything there to photograph anyway.

"We wanted to listen to the BBC broadcast which came over at 10 o'clock every night. This was strictly against Nazi rules, as the Nazis did not care for what the BBC broadcasters had to say, which does not seem altogether unreasonable as I look back upon it.

"So, to keep our guards from getting wise, we organized a choir. While some of us listened to the radio, the rest of us would stand by the door singing hymns at the top of our lungs to disguise the sound."

Mr. Haffel said that the newspaper gentlemen got to be very impressive hymn-singers. The favorite hymns, he reports, were "Rock of Ages" and "Onward Christian Soldiers."

SINCE HE began exhorting people to keep off public conveyances and walk, Mr. Charles Prins, public relations director of the Office of Defense Transportation, has become known to his friends as "Foot Prins."

JAMES CAGNEY, who is now a producer as well as actor, was buttonholed by a gushing matron who tried to sell him on the movie possibilities of her daughter.

The lady extolled her daughter's virtues, adding that she was "such a sweet, lovely little thing" that all movie fans would go into ecstasies over her.

Mr. Cagney explained that he went in for rough and ready stuff on the screen and that her daughter would be out of place among such tough characters.

"Your daughter," he said, pouring on the oil, "has such pure, fine qualities."

"Oh," said the lady, "I am sure something could be done about that. You do so many wonderful things out in Hollywood!"

RECENTLY, G. Ray Terrell, the magician, was giving a private demonstration of his art to a group of young ladies here.

In one of the tricks he knotted two silk handkerchiefs tightly together and let everyone examine the knot.

He permitted two of the hottest looking damsels, Miss Marion Reid and Miss Pat Simmons, to hold the two ends of the knotted handkerchiefs.

Then he made a grand flourish and—presto! the handkerchiefs fluttered apart in their hands.

Mr. Terrell probably never suffered such a setback in his career. The young ladies manifested not the slightest interest in the trick. Instead, they examined the handkerchiefs and exclaimed:

"Where in the world did you get such beautiful material?"

Broadway

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—I was privileged the other evening to sit in on a conversation between two agitated Broadwayites who all but elevated the old English rafters at Toots Shor's with their debate on the question of "The Night Club Show Girl of Today: Is She Beautiful or Is She Dreary?"

Dorothy Kilgallen

"There is no argument," averred the combatant named Harry, ignoring the fact that the argument could be heard all over the place, "because anyone with 20-20 vision can see that the show girls of today are ugly, homely and not at all pretty."

Harry's adversary, an awfully nice fellow named Joe, accepted this as purely rhetorical and dismissed it with a lofty sniff.

"Have you ever seen a girl named Nevada Smith at the Diamond Horseshoe?" inquired Joe. "A redhead from Las Vegas that has been in the movies six times?"

This went unanswered. "They're all terrible—all," said Harry. "A far cry from the days of the old Hollywood and the old Paradise. They used to have blondes in those shows — real blondes and peroxide blondes and platinum blondes. Boy, they were gorgeous. Now when you go to a floorshow what do you see?"

He paused, and as it was clear that Joe was not going to throw him any cues, I said "What?" as if I didn't know.

"Brunettes," said Harry in disgust. "Brunettes are forging ahead all over the place. Look at Miss America. Brunette. Every time you turn around a beauty contest winner is a brunette."

"Why don't you stop turning around?" asked Joe mildly. "And speaking of brunettes, have you ever glimmed a tall parfait at the Copacabana who goes by the name of June Ealy? Aah!"

"They're all terrible," said Harry. "It's not like the old days."

AT THIS POINT the waiter came and took away the chicken pot pies and Harry said, "What kind of ice cream have you got?"

The waiter said, "No kind."

Joe smiled. "What's more," he said, "show girls, and chorus girls for that matter, are no longer dumb as they were reputed to be in the era you rave about. Do you realize that nowadays 25 per cent of the beauties who work in night clubs attended college?"

"So what?" said Harry.

"I suppose you are going to tell me the girls in the old Paradise and the old Hollywood went to college?"

"They didn't need to," Harry said with a gurgle of tender reminiscence in his larynx. "They could have taught the Dean of Vassar plenty.

"There was a luscious brunette named Lillian Duval at the Hollywood who made Jane Russell look anemic and fellows used to cry to send her diamonds. Once she dropped her diamond wrist watch down the drain of the washbasin at the Hollywood and her boy friend paid thousands of dollars to have all the plumbing ripped apart so he could retrieve it.

"Then there was Ira Adrian, who didn't like the looks of a steak that her dimmer had presented for her approval before cooking, so she smacked him across the face with it. She wound up in the movies, naturally."

Harry sighed. "What girl could slap a fellow with a steak nowadays and get by with it?"

Joe shrugged. "What girl could get that many points?"

CHEMISTRY NOTE: If the recess commission scheduled to probe the horse racing situation in the Commonwealth ever gets down to business, members might do well to investigate the efficacy of the saliva test currently employed at New England tracks. It is reported that a certain stimulant, enjoying much popularity among those most interested in improving the speed of the thoroughbred horse, is not revealed by standard operational procedure.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Beacon st. and Massachusetts ave. is now the deadliest of all Boston street crossings for traffic . . . The excellent officer who is trying to guide traffic in the busy hours is at his wits' (or arms') end . . . With red and green and yellow lights conspiring, apparently, to make this particular officer's job impossible, he is doing his best to make sense out of a problem which might thwart the best brains of M. I. T., Harvard and Carnegie Tech.

THERE WILL be a serious accident at that corner, please mark our words . . . Next in deadliness to the Massachusetts ave.-Beacon st. crossing is the juncture of Arlington, Stuart, Columbus and a couple of other streets which meet (to the dismay of pedestrians and automists) one block from the Statler Hotel . . . We have urged radical corrective measures for that particular menacing junction heretofore.

BOSTON'S busiest Friday night in the night clubs since Pearl Harbor was last night . . . The Latin Quarter, with a show featuring Maurice Rocco and a good chorus, had standing room only from 8 o'clock on . . . Note: The Latin Quarter could sell more food and liquor if it cut the show a third . . . Everybody, including the star, is on stage much too long . . . Mickey Redstone, the shrewd young operator of the town's leading after-dark spot, must know that his acts overstay their welcome . . . Taking that premise as a fact, the only conclusion to draw is that profits having been what they are (very big), the Latin Quarter's management wishes its patrons to have as much entertainment as possible.

AT THE LINCOLN Theater in Quincy, a double bill with two pictures, entitled as follows: "The Uninvited" and "Standing Room Only" . . . At the Grotto: A convivial birthday party, with spaghetti and lobster sauce, and real spumoni, honoring the very attractive Mrs. Alfonso Cortese and Thomas Wilfred Barton Cortese, her handsome husband . . . (Mr Cortese had a rooting interest in Red Ted, which paid $36 for $2 at Narragansett.)

WHEN ERIC Johnston, the young president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, takes charge of the Will Hays office (as he will), Jane Russell will win the stardom denied her by the Will Hays edict banning the fillum, "The Outlaw," in which she would have qualified as a star . . . had the picture passed the Hays office . . . It will be interesting to Boston interviewers to learn that Yvonne De Carlo (whom they met at a Copley Plaza press party), is being touted as the next Mrs. Howard Hughes . . . Howard wins $14,000 every time the clock makes its 24-hour round . . . He owns rights to the diamond drill, a necessary gadget in the exploitation of oil wells . . . He also produced "The Outlaw" and an earlier film titled "Hell's Angels," which unearthed a great (and lamented) movie star named Jean Harlow.

NEWS: BENNY GOODMAN, the King of Swing, is paying an unannounced and unpublicized visit to Boston . . . Benny had some fun at 'Gansett Friday . . . But he found time, at the request of Lt. John Rooney, USNR, to drop in at the Fargo Building, the large sized rendezvous of Navy personnel in South Boston . . . We hear that it was a thrilling 10 minutes when Mr. Goodman borrowed a clarinet and went into a routine of hot music with the help of what was left of the Fargo Building sax-piece band . . . More than 2000 sailors cheered Benny's efforts.

Date for Nylon Sales Urged

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — A number of manufacturers and retailers have asked WPB to set a uniform date for the start of sales of nylon hosiery, say Dec. 1.

The idea is to prevent a wild scramble to get to the consumer first. The industry wants to have 3,000,000 dozen pairs on retailers' shelves before sales begin.

The proposal is getting a cool reception here. WPB officials say their aim is to get rid of government controls as soon as possible, not establish new ones.

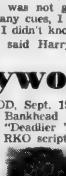
Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15—If Tallulah Bankhead says "yes" to "Deadlier Than the Male" the RKO script she is reading in New York, her co-star will be Lawrence Tierney. Now there's a combination —Tallu, and movie Dillinger!



Tallulah Bankhead

Very quietly the studio got the James Gunn story off to Bankhead along with a note saying the starring role just cries for her. It's about a Reno divorcee who falls in love with a man she is sure has committed a murder. After he drops her she's about to expose him when he marries her young sister.

For the first time Bankhead liked herself on the screen in "A Royal Scandal," so it will be no surprise if she returns to Hollywood for another fling. As for Larry Tierney, the row kicked up by "Dillinger" doesn't alter the fact he proved himself star material in the title role.

"A YOUNG CLIFTON WEBB," that's what Republic thunks it has in Edward Ashley. And that ain't bad! Mr. Webb, at any age or stage, is about as smooth as they come in the acting line. While comparisons may be odious, they're interesting and we'll get a chance to see how Eddie acquits himself in a Webb type of role in "The Madonna's Secret," with Francis Lederer and Ann Rutherford. Have you noticed the good pictures coming from Republic lately—excellently produced, directed and acted?

HAS ANYBODY heard from Madeleine? A hint in Edith Glynn's column to the effect Madeleine Carroll was heading this way to resume her career brought the following: Paramount has not been in touch with her in over four years. Her agent has no idea of where she has been the past two years. Madeleine and Stirling Hayden never had a large circle of friends in Hollywood, but none of their few intimates has heard from her—or Stirling—since she wrote saying she was giving up pictures for the duration. One of her business associates said: "My guess is Madeleine has definitely retired and won't be back."

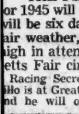
Great Barrington Race Meeting Opens Monday

By JACK CONWAY

THE FINAL WEEK of horse racing in Massachusetts or 1945 will open at Great Barrington on Monday . . . There vill be six days of racing at Eddie Carroll's track . . . with air weather, the Great Barrington meeting will set a new igh in attendance and in mutuel handle for the Massachuetts Fair circuit.

Racing Secretary Jimmy Picariello is at Great Barrington today, nd he will offer an eight-race program on Monday . . . Picarillo has also been racing secretary at Brockton, Northampton and Marshfield . . . With better and more horses than ever, the Massachusetts Fair circuit has had the most successful season in its history . . . It is expected that in 1946 there will also be fair racing at Topsfield and Weymouth.



Eddie Carroll

The big problem for race tracks in 1946 will be horses . . . New Jersey alone expects to have four tracks in operation, three more than that state has at this time . . . There is also a possibility that Massachusetts will have a three-quarter-mile track, while plans are under way for a million dollar race track at Lincoln, R. I. . . . The Lincoln track will be operated by the group that owns Pascoag . . . Horace Wade writes from Hollywood Park, California, that the west track is planning many improvements . . . Hollywood has set a high mark for purses for its January races as well as for rakes . . . Wade and Charley Markham have their racing stable headed by Bring Me Home, Believe Me, Lasting Peace at Hollywood . . . It is likely that the Wade-Martin stable will race in New England next year.

Robinson vs. LaMotta

JACK KEARNS expects that the twice postponed Ray Robinson-Jake LaMotta bout, now scheduled for Comiskey Park, Chicago, on Sept. 23, will draw $100,000 . . . This is a fair reaction . . . LaMotta, an aggressive, two-handed fighter, has always been able to give Robinson plenty of opposition . . . Robinson's speed and skill, however, are expected to enable him to win on points. . . . Robinson would be a certainty to win the world's welterweight title from Freddy Cochrane, while he would also have even chance to take the middleweight crown from Tony Zale . . . Robinson is a perfect fighting machine.

Senators Show Class

THE BRILLIANT showing of the Washington Senators consents to add fire to the American League pennant fight . . . The Senators refused to recognize the power of the Tigers when most of the experts felt the Detroit club was certain to win the pennant . . . The entire Washington team has shown championship form and has done its most effective playing when under pressure.

The Yanks have flashed occasionally and, with the Tigers and Senators, have given the fans a stirring American League pennant race.

Random Shots at Target

GEORGE FREEMAN says the Irish-American A. C. will resume staging amateur boxing shows as soon as the extensive repairs on the Arena are completed . . . The Arena will have a modern ice plant like the Garden . . . It will be possible to remove the ice in an hour when there is a boxing or wrestling show carded.

Tigers Score 2 in 2nd, 2 in 4th Against Nats

By JOE CASHMAN

GRIFFITH STADIUM, Washington, D. C., Sept. 15—In a setting reminiscent of the final game of the Senators-Pirates World's Series in 1925, the Senators began their supreme bid to land in the year's World's Series as they opened a five-game series with the pace-setting Detroit Tigers in a double-header.

It was raining cats and dogs on the Nats back there 20 years ago in Pittsburgh and they were the losers.

It was raining the same way all morning here in Washington. It as still raining, but not quite so hard as this scheduled twin-bill started before a crowd estimated at 25,000.

These current Nats didn't look upon the rain as a bad omen. None of them could remember 20 years back. Or if they could, it mattered not to them.

They think they are the team of destiny. They think they are going to be on top by nightfall.

They were only a half game back of the Tigers entering this crucial engagement. But that means, of course, that they must win both decisions today to take over the lead which has been held by the Bengals continuously since June 12.

The Tigers respected the Solons. They had to in view of the home boys' record of having won 11 of their last 14 starts.

Bu they had fallen to within a half game of second place several times before in the past three months without ever being dislodged from the roof and they were confident they could do it again.

That confidence was born of the fact that their three erstwhile cripples—Hal "Lefty" Newhouser, Hank Greenberg and Eddie Mayo, without whom they are not even a first division club, were all back in uniform, though Greenberg after taking fielding practice decided to confine his activities to pinch-hitting until tomorrow's twin bill.

Naturally, Newhouser, who has won 22 games to date but has only worked once in the past two weeks because of a lump on the shoulder of the pitching arm, went to the mound in the opener. Mayo was at second base. Jimmy Outlaw spelled Greenberg in left-field.

The Senators called on Emil "Dutch" Leonard, one of their four knuckleballers, who was after his 17th victory.

It was this same Leonard who cost the Tigers the pennant last fall when, in the final game of the year, he hurled the then last-place Nats to victory in Detroit to enable the St. Louis Browns to beat out Steve O'Neill's crew for the flag.

FIRST GAME

FIRST INNING

TIGERS—Hoover struck out. Mayor flied to Case. So did Cramer. NO RUNS.

SENATORS—Case grounded to Hoover. Newhouser threw out Myatt. Lewis walked. Kuhel singled. Travis struck out. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

TIGERS—With one ball and strike on Yrok the game was halted cacount of rain. Play resumed. York walked. Cullebine got a single when first base was left uncovered on his scratch grounder toward that bag. Outlaw forced York, Leonard to Travis. Maier singled, scoring Cullenbine. Richards singled, scoring Outlaw. Leonard was replaced yb Carrasquel for Washington. Greenberg batted for Newhouser adn grounded into a double play, Travis to Myatt to Kuhel. TWO RUNS.

SENATORS—With Overmire pitching for Detroit, Binks and Ferrell flied to Cullebine. Torres fouled to York. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

TIGERS—Hoover singled. Travis threw out Mayo. Cramer grounded to Myatt, Hoover taking third. York fouled to Ferrell. NO RUNS.

SENATORS—Carrasquel struck out. Case bunted safely toward second. Myatt popped to Mayo. Lewis fouled to Richards. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

TIGERS — Cullenbine singled. Outlaw doubled, sending Cullenbine to third. Maier was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Richards' low liner got away from Binks, Cullenbnie and Outlaw scoring, and Maier pulling up at second. Overmire sacrificed, Travis to Myatt. Hoover missed a bunt on an attempted squeeze play and Ferrell tagged out Maier at the plate. Hoover then flied deep to Binks. TWO RUNS.

SENATORS — Kuhel walked. Travis grounded into a double play, Mayo to Hoover to York. Binks singled. Ferrell flied to Outlaw. NO RUNS.

Art Fletcher Still In Serious Condition

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Art Fletcher, veteran coach of the New York Yankees baseball team, remained in a serious condition at St. Elizabeth's Hospital today. He suffered a heart attack several days ago.

Bums Beat Cubs, Shave N. L. Edge

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP)—The front-running Chicago Cubs threw Hank Borowky against the Dodgers today in an effort to regain a 3½-game lead over the second-place Cardinals. The Dodgers, who trimmed the Cards in a double-header last night at St. Louis, countered with Les Webber.

A crowd of some 12,000 saw the teams play one inning before the start of the regular game to finish the suspended game of July 20. At that time the Brooks held a 10-4 lead. They scored twice more in the last inning today to make the final score, 12 to 5. The Cubs got one run in their turn.

This decision shaved the Cubs' advantage over the Cards.

Hose Game Off; Two Tomorrow

By BILL GRIMES

FENWAY PARK, Sept. 15—After a half-hour of waiting due to showers, the White Sox and Red Sox opened a three-day four-game series here. Joe Cronin had Dave Ferriss warming up to face John Humphries, but at 2:20 the umpires called the game off on account of rain.

It was announced that there would be a double-header tomorrow and also a double-header Monday.

Wright Faces Reds for Tribe

CROSLEY FIELD, Cincinnati, Sept. 15—The Braves and Reds strated a six-game fight for sixth place before a skimpy crowd here today with Ed Heusser and Ed Wright as the opposing pitchers.

Tomorrow's doubleheader is scheduled to bring Bill Voiselle and Bob Logan to Boston's mound opposing Joe Bowman and Vernon Kennedy.

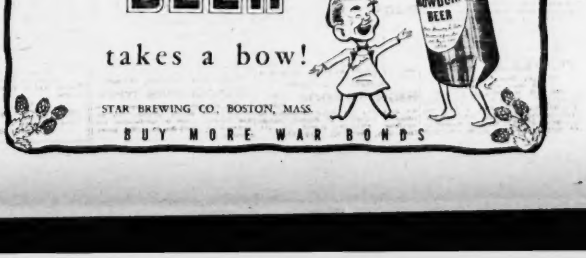
Dodgers Train Hits Truck; Players, Writers Unhurt

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 15 (AP)—The Wabash railroad train carrying the Brooklyn Dodgers from Louis crashed into a gasoline truck and trailer at near-Manhattan today, killing the driver and injuring the fireman truck driver.

None of the ball players or other passengers was injured and the train was able to proceed to Chicago after a two-hour delay. The Dodgers were riding in the rear car.

Witnesses said the trailer exploded following the crash and flaming gasoline set fire to the railroad depot and several buildings of a lumber company.

The Dodgers, scheduled to play the Chicago Cubs today, were accompanied by eight sports writers.



Fair Sex Enters School Grid Set-Up

By MIKE GILLOOLY

We have a candidate for a high commissioner of schoolboy football—a proven power who could keep peace in the ranks and incidentally one who might bring an ending to that ancient question of outlaw schools. It may shack a few but we'd put a lady up there—Mrs. Ruth Healy of Wakefield—and it will shock her to hear about this nomination.

But off her remarkable performance of this past week, she's proven herself capable of handling the trickiest of situations.

Mrs. Healy is the wife of Asst. Coach Bill Healy, the fellow who puts together the solid lines at Peabody High School. Mrs. Healy is the mother of Bill Healy, Jr., the fellow who tears lines apart, passes over them and goes around them while carrying the ball for Wakefield High School.

And she's the one who has kept peace in the Healy home this past week in spite of the father-son rivalry that will reach its climax tonight at Manning Bowl, Lynn. She's the one who has had to keep peace in a torrid atmosphere of ribbing and counter-ribbing since this contest was contracted as a replacement for the Peabody-Marblehead tilt.

HEALY'S MIGHT POP OFF

Coach Bill admits that he's been slyly trying to steal the secrets of the Wakefield offense. But he also admits that young Bill hasn't spoken a word to him all week.

It's developed into quite a situation. We'd just love to sit in on Sunday morning breakfast with the Healys! That's when the fur will fly.

Peabody's Tanners won't be the only titlists in action . . . Chelsea High's Class B leaders will attempt a successful opening of their defense tomorrow afternoon against Lynn English at Manning Bowl . . . and Coach Glenn O'Brien's Salem eleven, upholding New England's prowess in the Orange Bowl last December, will be moving up to Lowell to open against Coach Herb Cochrane's outfit . . . St. James of Haverhill will complete the Sunday card at Lawrence.

There's no reason to sell the Coach Henry McCarthy's Red Devils short . . . there's plenty of class in that backfield, paced by co-captains Johnnie Glowacki and Angelo "Shadow" DiNofrio . . . just add 185 pounds of Mike Opolka (watch for the big No. 77) and 170 pounds of Joe Bishop . . . and you might possibly concoct the highest scoring backfield in the state.

English, under Coach Nick Morris, will never be a pop-over . . . those classy Chelsea ball-carriers will be trying to step through a nifty line . . . one that will have veterans Marty Smith and John Hennessy on ends; co-captain Jake Jacovitz and Ruby Jules at guards and Herb Smallwood at center . . . Jacovitz and Small-wood were standouts in the recent jamboree . . . fullback Bob Bolger, co-captain, will pace the Lynn offensive.

Lowell was practically blasted out of town by La Salle Academy in an exhibition last spring but since that time, Coach Cochrane has given the team plenty of work . . . the Lowell line will be heavy and the backs fast . . . Johnnie Dahlquist will be the only veteran in the backfield but he'll get plenty of assistance from Al Baranowski, a former end converted to fullback.

WATCH DEVLIN'S TEAM

The Orange Bowlers from Salem lost practically all their veterans to the armed forces . . . Coach O'Brien was so pressed that he asked to be released from the jamboree . . . but it's safe to bet that Salem will be a smart, well-versed team.

Mark Devlin's Lawrence team will have another clever passer in Ray Palmigiamo, qb . . . halfback Roland Belanger, hurt in the jamboree, will be back as a starter . . . Tom Ruffen and Leonard Caltagy will compete the backfield . . . Dick Lahey will bear watching at center.

School Coaches Threaten Strike

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (INS)—Labor unrest entered the New York city sports world today as 141 members of the High School Coach Ass'n announced they would stop coaching public high school sports Sept. 21 unless pay raises are forthcoming.

They presented to the board of education demands for additional pay ranging from $100 for coaching golf, handball and tennis to $600 for coaching football squads.

A strike, it was emphasized, would not affect the coaches' regular year-'round work as physical education instructors.

Brown Grid Coach Pleased With Guard

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15 (INS)—Head Coach "Rip" Engle of the Brown University grid squad expressed himself as highly pleased today with the work of "Sy" Blutstein, New York city veteran tackle, in his new post at guard.

The Bruins this year are long on tackles, but short on guards, and Engle decided to convert the big New York veteran into a guard.

Blutstein took over his new duties in such fashion that Coach Engle was assured that at least one guard position would be well taken care of.

Doyle, Servo Seek Shots at Cochrane

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—The State Athletic Commission today had the forfeit checks of a couple of battlers who would like to get in the same ring with Freddy Cochrane and fight for the welterweight champion's crown.

Mgr. Al Weill posted a $1500 check in behalf of rugged Marty Servo of Schenectady, N. Y., recently released from the Coast Guard. Servo was defeated only by Ray (Sugar) Robinson in 51 fights. Tony Palazolo appeared in behalf of Jimmy Doyle of Los Angeles who recently won a welterweight tournament in Cleveland.

Record Sum Paid At Newmarket Sales

NEWMARKET, Eng., Sept. 15 (AP)—A record sum of $2,155,526 was put on the line for 318 horses at the Newmarket sales with the yearlings averaging a new high of $7089 each. The old total mark of $1,685,653 was set 17 years ago.

The sales, which ended yesterday, saw the Gaekwar of Baroda, an Indian prince with an annual income of $8,000,000, spend $281,-760 for six racing doubtfuls. His purchase of a full brother of the English Derby dinner Dante for $117,600 set a world's record.

'Popeye' Woods Wins by K. O. in 8

While entertaining the 3500 crowd with his intricate steps, Walter (Popeye) Woods, 164½, the bald-headed New York dancing master, set off as much of the dynamite in his right fist that he knocked out rugged Reedy Evans, 167, of Hackensack, N. J., in the eighth round of their 10-round feature boxing bout last night at the Boston Garden.

Woods, overflowing with amusing antics, gave the crouching Jersey Negro a terrific beating about the head during the first round and then, with terrific straight rights to the jaw, dropped him for three and nine counts in the second.

In the scheduled "sixes," Blonde Tiger, 131, of Lowell, outpointed Frankie Parrimore, 137, of Chester, Pa.; George Purdham, 150, of Cambridge, registered a two-round technical knockout over Ken Conley, 132, of Boston, and Johnny Priest, 136, of Cambridge, defeated Al Smith, 130, of Scranton, Pa.

Tufts Rolls Up 14-0 First Period Score

By MURRAY KRAMER

TUFTS OVAL, Sept. 15—Before a gathering of some 3500 fans, Tufts and Coast Guard opened the New England college grid season here today. It was the rubber meeting between the two. Tufts rammed the Coast Guard 20 to 7 here at this field two years ago but the Cadets more than evened the score at New London last fall with a 40-7 triumph.

FIRST PERIOD

The underdog Jumbos drew first blood, scoring the first time they took possession. A hurried 15-yard boot by Caldwell sent Tufts on offense at the 50. So terrified a perfect 15-yard pass to Barnhart who lateralled to Rohrs and Rohrs raced 35 yards to score. McNeil converted.

Score—Tufts 7, Coast Guard 0.

Lew Manley's surprising Medfordites kept the Sailors pinned deep in their own backyard and halfway through the period found themselves in scoring position again when Feldman recovered a Coast fumble on the visitor's 30.

Feldman flanked for six and McNeil made it first down on the 19. Feldman hit Allen with a pass on the seven for another first down, McNeil jammed through to the two, and there Allen "sneaked" over. McNeil converted, as the period ended.

Score: Tufts 14, Coast Guard 0.

SECOND PERIOD

The sluggish Middies finally unwound, with Tommy Dorsey sparking the drive. The men from New London moved 58 yards without ever giving up the ball until hitting T. D. territory. They appeared to be halted on the Tufts 35, where it was fourth and nine to go, but Dorsey passed down the middle to Reed, who made a remarkableone-handed catch and then scooted the remaining distance. Hathaway's conversion missed.

Score—Tufts 14, Coast Guard 6.

Dorsey took control again late in the period and moved along to the Jumbo 29. Here Bears intercepted a Dorsey flip on his own 30 as the half ended.

Score—Tufts 14, Coast Guard 6.

Navy, as Usual, Ready to Take Over

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 15 (AP)—Navy has a great string of backs cavorting in the Blue and Gold this fall, but don't overlook the ends, because if this Middie eleven ever has to come in on the strength of its wings, look out.

A wealth of Navy ends have been quietly ignored in the preseason fanfare for the Tar backfield talent, but right now no less than four flankmen who will rank better than most in the land are getting ready for a big campaign.

Going along without fanfare is Leon Bramlett, the Mississippian whose consistent brilliance won him and end berth on the second All-America last year, and Dick Duden, the New Yorker and team captain, set for the other flank.

Duden, converted from blocking back, appears a good match for Bramlett's all-round ability, and behind that pair will be Bob Hill of Washington, D. C., and Arthur Markel of Los Angeles.

Although All-America Don Whitmore of Alabama is ineligible, the tackle figure to be plenty strong and the guards should be tops. E. E. (Rip) Miller, veteran line coach, perhaps has his toughest job at center, but Dick Scott of Highland Falls, N. Y., and William Jeese, a find from Missoula, Mont., will do splendidly.

SWELL LOOKING SQUAD

Opposing backs will find no lady fingers at tackle when they crack up with John Coppedge of Blytheville, Ark., Charles Kiser of Mason City, Iowa, Dick Shimshak of La Crosse, Wis., and Hal Carpenter of Hillsback, Ohio.

Com. Oscar E. Hagberg, head coach, smiles confidently at mention of his pigskin magicians who are mastering rapidly the T-formation which the Sailors are inaugurating for attack.

Hagberg's job is to get the right combination to meet:

Sept. 29—Villanova at Annapolis; 6—Duke at Durham; 13—Penn State at Annapolis; 20—Georgia Tech at Baltimore (night); 27 — Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; Nov. 3 — Notre Dame at Cleveland; 10—Michigan at Baltimore; 17—Wisconsin at Baltimore; Dec. 1 — Army at Philadelphia.
